Commander, Air Force Life Cycle Management Center

I occasionally get asked about what I'm reading...I do try to read a lot. In 2016 I set myself a goal of a book a week...and failed. I tried again in 2017...and failed again, but got closer. I finally achieved my goal in 2019 and surpassed the mark in 2020. I tend to read books, mostly for pleasure and distraction, but I try to weave in professional development along the way. Below are a handful of books I read this past year I would recommend you consider:

'Biased: Uncovering the Hidden Prejudice That Shapes What We See, Think, and Do' by Jennifer Eberhardt

'The Culture Code: The Secrets of Highly Successful Groups' by Daniel Coyle

'Give and Take' and 'Originals' by Adam Grant

'When' and 'Drive' by Daniel Pink

'The Infinite Game' by Simon Sinek

'Option B' by Sheryl Sandberg

'The Innovator's Dilemma' by Clayton Christensen

'Radical Candor' by Kim Scott

Whether you read books, listen to podcasts, or wait for them to be turned into Netflix documentaries...I encourage you to a path of life-long learning.
